

Agility in Adversity

About Wisereach and Agile

Wisereach delivers change, projects and solutions with a strong focus on Lean thinking and Agile techniques. We work together with our clients to utilise the right people, processes and tools.

We can deliver solutions for you or work with you to implement a delivery approach that is right for you. We treat the introduction of Agile as a business change event within your organisation enabling you to deliver true business agility.

We have a strong track record of Agile delivery in many sectors including finance, media, telecoms and government.

Unlocking agility by becoming Lean

Agility in many organisations gets weighed down by the established governance and planning processes. Lean shares a common philosophy with Agile but it addresses issues across the organisation, not just in software delivery. Lean aims to create more value for less work; eliminating wasteful activities and enabling teams to focus on delivering benefit.

Let Wisereach show you how our Lean approach enables Agile to thrive rather than struggling to survive.

Getting Agile to work in the finance sector

In an industry increasingly driven by regulation and control, is it practical to introduce an Agile approach to software delivery?

Our experience is that if you get the balance right between control and flexibility you can achieve substantial gains by introducing Agile approaches. Doing this in environments with strong regulation needs a delivery team that understands where requirements need to be fixed and where they can be flexed.

Talk to us about our experience of getting Agile working where regulation rules.

Wisereach and VersionOne deliver results

In a market dominated by tools built around waterfall methods VersionOne is a unique project management solution specifically designed to support the delivery of Agile projects end-to-end.

With the flexibility to manage any Agile approach, multi-team support and great usability there has never been a better solution to enable your organisation to maximise the benefits of Agile. Everyone benefits from VersionOne with support for project management, team collaboration and a wealth of reports to help you keep control in a rapidly changing environment.

How do you show people what it feels like to be Agile?

If you are operating in an Agile team it is easy to see the benefits - but how do you get others to buy in to your new way of working?

At Wisereach we use abstract game-play to let people experience the effects of delivering in an Agile way. Our techniques can be used right up to the board room to gain business engagement and acceptance of why Agile delivers the right solutions. Why not ask us about running a session for your business?

Agile and social networking - the perfect match

Social networks are a great forum for team collaboration and to reach out to your customer base to gather real product requirements. Techniques include suggesting and voting for features through to keeping customers engaged throughout your Agile process.

The latest release of VersionOne includes Agile Ideas to truly integrate your online network with your product design. Talk to us about how you can unlock the value of social networking.
